We are definitely in a unique time right now with this Covid-19 pandemic. It will be interesting to look at the history books when I am older and remember the time the whole world shut down. It will also be amazing to look back at this time and see what God did through it. While being on deputation under these circumstances is definitely not according our plan, I am excited to eventually be able to see God's perspective on this and what He wanted to accomplish through us in this change.

These past two months have had quite a few schedule changes. While we were able to have our meetings for the first three weeks of March, the last 2 weeks and the month of April had many meetings postponed. We were able to do some livestreamed services which was a new and fun experience. We praise the Lord for the technology available to still be able to minister during this time.

While it may seem like a delay in getting us to Mali, we remember that God has called us to serve Him wherever we may be. Thankfully, he has given us opportunity to do that as I have still been able to help teach in our church's Christian school and do livestream services as mentioned before.

We have been praying for you, pastors, as you have some difficult decisions to make and new problems arising. Please pray with us that our original goal of leaving in the spring of 2021 will not be changed. We are still trusting God to bring in the needed support in this time frame. May God bless you and your church family during this unusual time.
